

Open! Open! Open!

Two Restaurants That Opened in NYC This Week

By Jessica Lee Fri., Oct. 3 2014 at 9:00 AM
Categories: Open! Open! Open!

When one restaurant's doors close, another's open in fast-paced New York City, and every Friday, we'll fill you in on what opened up around town. This week was a slow one for openings, but here are a pair of new entrants.

Morsi, 22 Warren Street, 212-577-2725

Taking the place of Brick is Morsi, an 80-seat Italian restaurant. Italian for bites, Morsi is serving up everything from sweet potato gnocchi to free range lemon chicken to calzones. Chef Kenneth Johnson, formerly of Pescatore, is running the kitchen. Morsi is now open for dinner everyday except Sunday.

